EPISCOPAL PRELATE DEAD

Bishop Potter of Diocese of New York Enters Into Rest.

Bishop Henry Codman Potter died Tuesday night at Fernleigh, his summer home at Cooperstown, N. Y., after an illness of several weeks, aged 73 years. The Bishop was unconscious all day, and the end, which came at 8:35 p. m., was peaceful and quiet.

Death was due primarily to embolism in the right leg, following a long attack of liver and stomach trouble, and the end had been foreseen for several days by the Bishop's physicians. Bishop Potter suffered a severe relapse Monday morning and, though oxygen was given, his decline was gradual, and he sank into unconsciousness early Tuesday, which lasted until the end.

HENRY CODMAN POTTER

Bishop Potter was born in Schenectady, N. Y., May 25, 1835. His education was obtained chiefly at the Episcopal Academy, Philadelphia, and for a time he engaged in mercantile pursuits, but this was not for long, as he seemed predestined for the church, and found content in following out a course of classical education. He entered the Theological Seminary of Virginia, and was graduated from that institution in 1857. During the same year he married, and on May 25 of the same year received deacon's orders at the hands of his father in St. Luke's church, Philadelphia. He was ordained in Trinity church, Pittsburg, October 15, 1858, by Dr. Bowman, assistant Bishop of Pennsylvania, and assumed his first pastoral charge as rector of Christ church, Greensburg, Pa.

In May 1859 he was called to St. John's church at Troy, N. Y. In 1862 he was elected rector of Christ church, Cincinnati, a year later he was chosen president of Kenyon College, at Gambler, O., and in the same year was further honored by a call to St. Paul's church at Albany, N. Y.

All of these offers were declined, the young rector preferring his work in Troy, but after seven years of service there he accepted the post of assistant minister of Trinity church, Boston.

Two years later he was elected rector of Grace church, New York City, the church in which he was later to be consecrated to the bishopric. He filled the rectorship of Grace church, with its manifold responsibilities, for 15 years with single-heartedness and a ripe measure of success, and in 1875 was elected Bishop of Iowa, but declined the honor. He received the degree of D. D. from Trinity College and that of LL. D. from Union College a little later on.

His Cambridge and Harvard degrees were conferred on him in 1875.

C. G. McElfish
On Tuesday, July 21, Clarence G. McElfish died at the home of his sister, Mrs. Minnie Hoey, in Altoona, of a complication of diseases, in his 31st year. The body was brought here yesterday morning and interred in the cemetery.

Mary Heffner died in Harrisburg, July 17, in the 79th year of her age. She spent most of her life about Saxton; was converted under the ministry of Rev. J. K. Loyd and united with the M. E. church. The latter years of her life were marked by ill-health and failing mind. She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Esther Abbott of Saxton, and four brothers, James of Cypher, Samuel of Yellow Creek, George of Louisville, Ky., and John Heffner of Saxton. Funeral services were held in the Church of God, Saxton, at 11 a. m. Sunday, and were conducted by Rev. F. W. McGuire.

Henry H. Laher
Henry H. Laher, a highly respected resident of Everett, died on Monday at the age of 69 years. He was born in Snyder's Valley and moved to Everett in 1883, where he was engaged in the furniture and undertaking business for several years, but of late was employed at the Cottage Planting Mill.

His wife, formerly Miss Fannie Meyers of Huntingdon, and three children, survive: Harry E. and Miss Annie, of Everett, and John of Johnson City, Tenn. Deceased was a member of the 19th Penna. Cavalry of the Royal Arcanum Lodge, served on the Everett school board, and was also a member of the Baptist church. The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon, the services being conducted by Rev. A. C. Lathrop, a former Everett minister.

GOMPERS ON PLATFORMS

Declarations of Both Parties Discussed by Labor Leader.

Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, has prepared an editorial for the Federationist in which he compares the injunction planks of the Republican and Democratic platforms under the caption: "Both Parties Have Spoken—Choose Between Them." In taking up the Republican platform he quotes the injunction plank proposed by organized labor and the one adopted by the convention, and in commenting on the substitute he says: "At a glance, the plank adopted will be seen to be a flimsy, tricky evasion of the issue. It is an endorsement of the very abuse against which labor justly protests, and would, if enacted by Congress, give statutory authority for the issuance of injunctions in labor disputes, an authority which does not now exist. It would make more acute the wrongs by which the toilers are forced to bear the unjust, judicial burden of injunction discrimination."

"That part of the plank declaring that the Republican party will uphold the authority and integrity of the courts is a gratuitous, indelible and covert insult, not only to men of labor, but to the courts themselves. It implies that the integrity and legal authority of the courts have been questioned. It was adopted to appease the corporation magistrates and corporation lawyers who demanded that the Republican convention adopt such a declaration."

"Labor asked the Republican convention to declare for the enactment of a law recognizing human rights and human freedom. It wholly failed to meet the requirements of an intolerable, unjust, and un-American situation. No relief was either declared or promised."

"Labor asked the Republican convention for bread, and it gave a stone."

"We believe that the whole mass of the workers of the country will respond in hearty sympathy with the Democratic party in the coming campaign as a result of its action in the labor planks of the platform. They will be of practical benefit to the workers."

Democracy Labor's Friend

"We have no hesitation in urging the workers and our friends throughout the country to support the party in this campaign which has shown its sympathy with our wrongs and its desire to remedy them and to see that the rights of the people are restored."

"It is the Democratic party which has done this. We would urge the workers to support any party which had incorporated our demands into its platform and promised to work for their fulfillment."

"A deliberate attempt is being made by the opposition press to make it appear that Gompers has promised to deliver the labor vote to the Democratic party. Such a statement is as absurd as to 'hardly need refutation. We recognize the right of every citizen to cast his vote for any candidate and with any party that he pleases. Far be it from us to attempt to coerce the votes of the workers nor are we so foolish as to promise to 'deliver the labor vote.'"

"We earnestly ask the workers and their friends to make the choice which is in accordance with their best interests. We ask them to remember their moral obligations to cast their votes for those who will protect and defend their rights. If they fail to do so, they will have to reckon with even a worse condition of affairs than now obtains."

"While we do not wish in any way to interfere with each man's right to choose his own political affiliations, yet we say frankly that the workers, who, in this campaign, supports the party or the candidate that has contemptuously and boastfully announced hostility to labor's interests—well, he will have to reckon with his own conscience and with his fellow-workers."

George R. Thompson

About 12:30 o'clock last Saturday George R. Thompson shot himself in the head in the basement of a moving picture show on Masters Way, Pittsburg, and died an hour later at the Homeopathic Hospital.

George R. Thompson was a son of Frank Thompson, Esq., of this place and was about 27 years of age. He was a pianist of exceptional ability and was employed in this capacity at the time of his death. From reports of his actions and his conversation his mind had evidently been unbalanced for some time prior to his committing the fatal act.

Deceased is survived by his parents, one sister, Miss Fannie, and three brothers, William R. of Jerome, Somerset county, and John and Frank, Jr., at home. The remains were brought here on Sunday and the funeral service was conducted Tuesday morning by Rev. J. A. Eyer, pastor of St. John's Reformed church. In this sort of afflictions his parents have the sympathy of the entire community.

Mrs. Sarah Wright

Mrs. Sarah Wright, a pioneer resident of this county, died at her home in Pleasantville on Monday, July 20, at the advanced age of 83 years. She was the widow of Nathan Wright and had been in failing health for several years.

She leaves the following children: Howard and Mrs. Hensch Black, of Pleasantville; Mrs. Samuel Beckley of Schellsburg; Mrs. Austin Mack of Oldahona; Mrs. George Willis and Frank L. of Altoona; Henry and Samuel, of Johnston. The funeral was held Wednesday morning.

EVERETT TANNERY BURNED

Loss Reaches Quarter of Million—Origin Unknown.

Last Thursday night about 11:20 o'clock the Tecumseh Tannery was discovered to be on fire and, despite heroic efforts on the part of the fire company, was in a short time in ruins. The origin of the fire is unknown as the watchman had passed the spot where the blaze was first seen but a few minutes before. It started in the hair house and soon gained headway in the other buildings. A large quantity of hides and leather were destroyed and the loss is estimated at $250,000.

Dennis Coveney is superintendent of the tannery which was the largest in this section of the state and employed about 125 men. It is owned by the Elk Tanning Company of Ridgeway, Elk county. During the electric storm Tuesday afternoon the large Gephart barn southwest of town was struck by lightning and burned to the ground. The live stock was all gotten out by Frank Gephart, who happened to be on the scene, also a couple of vehicles and some harness, but the grain, hay, binder and other farm implements were destroyed, which, together with the barn, aggregated a loss to J. T. Gephart and his son Frank of about $3,500. The property was insured to the amount of about $1,150.

WESTERN LAND

Former Bedford County Farm Boy Writes of Prosperity.

Sutton, Neb., July 15, 1908.

To the Gazette and my friends of Bedford county who will no doubt remember me as a boy working for Capt. J. S. Stuckey at eight dollars per month: Since I left your county over thirty years have passed and many changes have been made. Thirty years ago on the second day of April I took the train at Wolfburg and started for Sutton, at which place I settled with my mother, wife and two children, both babies. We have made this our home ever since, my mother living with me until her death several years ago. We have six children living, three boys and three girls, the oldest 33; the youngest 21. One girl and two boys married and located near Sutton and own their own homes; two girls and one boy are at home.

Now, I do not wish to tell my friends what we have just to let my know how much we are worth, but just to let my young friends who are readers of the good old Gazette know that there is no use for the boys in Bedford county to stay there and work so hard until they are old men, and then have nothing to show for their work. But don't come to Nebraska or any other new country to work by the month or by the day and expect to save much money or accumulate prosperity; you can do that in Nebraska or in Colorado but very little faster than you can in Pennsylvania. When you start to work in a new country, the country develops too fast for you to earn money enough to buy a home. You must go where the land is cheap and buy it, if you haven't all the money to pay for it, buy it on time, then earn the money to pay for it. Boys, it is much easier to buy land in a new country and then pay for it than it is to save money and then buy. The advance is too great. Thirty years ago I landed in Nebraska, at that time a new country, and started to work by the month $30 in debt. At that time the best of new land was selling here for from $8 to $10 per acre, but I didn't buy any of it because I did not have the money to pay for it. Later, when land was worth $20 per acre I bought 128 acres on time, then paid for it; then bought 160 acres at $32 per acre. This was bought for $5,000 and every cent borrowed.

We have raised 100 acres of wheat on this farm each year for seven years; six crops paid for the land and built a new house at a cost of $2,500. This farm today would sell for $100 per acre. We also have 50 acres adjoining the city that cost us $5,500; for this we have been offered $150 per acre. One of my boys has 40 acres adjoining town that cost him $6,000 for which he has been offered $8,000. We also have several pieces of town property; all of our land is well stocked with good horses, cattle and hogs and plenty of machinery. My son-in-law has 292 acres of land that cost him $13,000. He could sell it today for $26,000. He had only $2,200 when he bought the first farm for $6,000.

Now, boys, do you see the land will make you money if you just buy it while it is cheap. You don't have to be dishonest to make money; just come to Sutton and go with me; I will show you land that you will say is just as good as ours, which lies much nicer and more convenient to market. This is much finer land than you can see east of the mountains; land that will grow enough crops in one single year to pay for itself at the present price, but it will not sell at this price much longer. This land is within 230 miles of Sutton, the expense from Sutton to see the land and return is only $12. Won't you come and look at this land, see the horses, cattle, hogs, wheat, corn, oats, barley and potatoes? After you have seen the country, the stock, the grain, and drunk the pure water, such as the mountain water in your own state, and have breathed as pure air as there could be in any state, you will say "This is good enough for me!" and if you wish to change your location or make an investment you will be ready to invest. This land can be bought at from $10 to $15 per acre. Four years ago it sold at $4 per acre. As I am engaged in the real estate business, you may think my talk is to draw you on and get you to buy land so that I will make money out of it. Now you are right, this is the first object; the second object is to have you make money the same as hundreds are doing, as you will see should you decide to investigate what I have told you. We have no scheme; just good black soil; when you look at it, if you don't want it, don't buy. If you buy, you get a warranted deed or a railroad contract with deed on completion of deferred payments. Any one having a few thousand dollars spare money can no doubt make more than twenty per cent, on it to buy some of this land and let it lie; but to brake it out would be much more profitable, and there is no safer investment

WOMEN'S WOES

Bedford Women Are Finding Relief at Last.

It does seem that women have more than a fair share of the aches and pains that afflict humanity; they must "keep up," must attend to duties in spite of constantly aching backs, or headaches, dizzy spells, bearing-down pains; they must stoop over, when to stoop over means torture. They must walk and bend and work with racking pains and many aches from kidney ills. Kidneys cause more suffering than any other organ of the body. Keep the kidneys well and health is easily maintained. Read of a remedy for kidneys only that helps and cures the kidneys and is endorsed by people you know.

Mrs. John Hershberger, living on Pitt St., Bedford, Pa., says: "I have been in poor health for some time owing to a weakened condition of my kidneys. I had nearly all the symptoms which accompany a case of kidney disease, and when Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention, I procured a box at Irvine's drug store. They gave me relief from the first. I continued using them and am glad to say that they gave me the greatest relief."

than in a good farm. During the last fifteen months we have sold 6,500 acres of land of which 3,300 acres, located near Sutton, sold at prices ranging from $50 to $140 per acre. Four hundred eighty acres in Dawson county sold at $40 per acre; 2,720 acres in northeastern Colorado sold at $9.50 to $12.50. Parties that bought Colorado land are William Ebert of Sutton, 640 acres; George and Ed. Ebert, of Sutton, 640 acres. Mr. Ebert owns 640 acres of land near Sutton that is worth $90 per acre. Henry Yost of Sutton owns 320 acres, 240 acres near Sutton that is worth $100 per acre. Edward Baumann and J. S. Obelander of Grafton, Neb., own 640 acres; they have 1,500 acres near Sutton that is worth from $85 to $90 per acre. Christiansen Brothers of Saronville bought 320 acres, and Conrad Urbach of Sutton bought 160 acres. The last three parties will locate in Colorado. Mr. Ebert bought for an investment, having bought his Nebraska lands about thirty years ago at $10 per acre, and he thinks the Colorado lands as good if not a better investment than the Nebraska land at the time he bought it. Mr. Baumann's land here was all bought at a low price and has made the Baumann family at least $75,000 to say nothing about the crops raised which have always paid good interest; and they have bought the Colorado land for an investment.

Should you wish to write to either of these gentlemen that have bought they will gladly answer your letter; should you wish further information from me I will be pleased to furnish it on application.

To the West, to the West, to the Land of the free,
Where the mighty Missouri rolls down to the sea;
Where a man is a man if he is willing to toil,
And gather the fruit of the richest of soil.

With best wishes to my friends of Bedford county and the good old Gazette that has come to us once a week for the last thirty years, I am,
Yours truly,
John D. Dennis.

This is what Hon. Jake Moore, State Warden of Georgia, says of Kodol For Dyspepsia: "E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, Ill.—Dear Sirs: I have suffered more than twenty years from indigestion. About eighteen months ago I had grown so much worse that I could not digest a crust of corn bread and could not retain anything on my stomach. I lost 25 lbs.; in fact I made up my mind that I could not live but a short time, when a friend of mine recommended Kodol. I consented to try it to please him and was better in one day. I now weigh more than I ever did in my life and am in better health than for many years. Kodol did it. I keep a bottle constantly, and write this hoping that humanity may be benefited. Yours very truly, Jake C. Moore, Atlanta, Aug. 10, 1904." Sold by Ed. D. Heckerman.

It Can't Be Beat.
The best of all teachers is experience. C. M. Harden, of Silver City, North Carolina, says: "I find Electric Bitters does all that's claimed for it. For Stomach, Liver and Kidney troubles it can't be beat. I have tried it and find it a most excellent medicine." Mr. Harden is right; it's the best of all medicines also for weakness, lame back, and all run down conditions. Best too for chills and malaria. Sold under guarantee at all Druggists. 50c.

New Neckwear
The new neckwear has not only the advantage of simplicity, but it is also easy to make at home. In fact, many women have a piece of handsome lace which they have hesitated for many years to cut, but now is their opportunity. The heirloom may be used to the best advantage and yet not be touched by scissors, needle or thread.

THE GIRL WHO FRECKLES

Some Excellent Advice—Lotions to Remove the Blemishes.

Freckles are deposits of carbon beneath the outer skin.

Place some blistering fluid over one and the outer skin will come away and the freckle with it.

To follow this severe method of treating them would be paying dear for one's good looks.

Try, instead, this simple remedy which is frequently successful:

Apply to the face five or six times a day a saturated solution of borax in rose water, and allow it to dry on the skin.

Another excellent remedy for more obstinate cases is: Mix thoroughly oil of almonds, a teaspoonful; best English mustard in powder, a table-spoonful, and enough lemon juice to make a thick paste; spread it on the face in a thin plaster, night and morning, until the skin smart.

In a few days the outer skin should loosen and peel off, as dead skin, almost imperceptibly, and the freckles disappear.

After they have gone the skin should be bathed several times a day with a solution of borax.

Lemon juice alone is known to be quite effectual and comparatively harmless in removing freckles.

The skin should first be softened by some almond paste, or a light poultice and a freshly cut lemon then rubbed on the spot.

One must use one's own discretion in using recipes or preparations, repeating it as often as may be necessary, or according to the manner it may act upon one.

Some skins are delicate and require light restoratives, others demand stronger measures.

Lotions of witch water are recommended as wonderfully effective in obliterating freckles.

Apply night and morning, continue for several minutes, and let it dry without wiping.

Some skins and temperaments demand the curative powers of the minerals that flow from the earth, others the vegetable compounds.

But whatever the case, the most simple and natural remedies are found to be the most effectual.—Philadelphia Press.

Just Exactly Right.

"I have used Dr. King's New Life Pills for several years, and find them just exactly right," says Mr. A. A. Felton, of Harrisville, N. Y. New Life Pills relieve without the least discomfort. Best remedy for constipation, biliousness and malaria. 25c. at all Druggists.

Bert Barber, of Elton, Wis., says: "I have only taken four doses of your Kidney and Bladder Pills and they have done for me more than any other medicine has ever done. I am still taking the pills as I want a perfect cure." Mr. Barber refers to DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. Sold by Ed. D. Heckerman.

The Barn in the Rain
Gray barn and draggled meadow,
Blurred green of grass and leaves,
The sky an awful shadow,
For on her gray face weaves

The rain with silver threads,
That fleck the muddy puddle,
The rattle on the sheds
Where the cold cattle huddle!

Then oh, the haymow soft
And deep and dark and warm,
On sweet hay piled aloft—
While overhead the Storm

Sweeps the wet shingles, drips
At eaves, makes music wild—
We listen: the soul slips
Years back and is a child.

Somehow as at the start
We turn from Life's hot foam,
Get in the World's warm heart,
Yea, make Earth's heart our home!

And lie there warm, secure,
Yea, as a child of five,
Heart cleansed, serene and pure
And glad to be alive.

Return of the Poke Bonnet
Now the Directoire hat is being exploited by fashionable milliners. It is the shape with which we are familiar from illustrations of the dress worn during the time of Napoleon.

These hats are quaint things, of the poke bonnet family, adorned with three nodding plumes of stiff little bunches of posies and always with long satin ribbons, which tie under one ear, or, more demurely, under the chin. These hats are already being worn by the younger members of the Newport smart set, and very charming they look with garden party frocks.

$10,000 NEEDED

By Pennsylvania Society to Prevent Spread of Disease.

The Board of Directors of the Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis at its monthly meeting last week, passed upon certain pieces of work of considerable interest to the public.

Merchants and manufacturers, first in Philadelphia and after that in all parts of the state, are to be asked to aid in controlling tuberculosis by co-operating with the society along certain lines now being presented to them personally in a carefully worked-out plan. Those who have already been approached upon this subject have expressed considerable interest in this method for controlling the spread of tuberculosis.

The board gave favorable consideration to a letter to be sent to railroads of the state requesting their co-operation in controlling the spread of tuberculosis among travelers. The railroads are asked to furnish to travelers, under certain conditions, sanitary devices, drinking cups, etc., which are intended to prevent the spread of communicable diseases, and to place upon the walls of cars, or give individually to careless travelers a card of instruction upon this subject.

The report of the executive secretary, Wallace Hatch, showed that calls for information, employment, etc., were gradually increasing, and that the exhibit which has now been shown in fourteen cities and towns, with a total attendance of 153,226 made its banner presentation in St. Benedict, where out of a population of approximately 1,000 people, the attendance registered 2,367, or between two and three times the population.

The board discussed very thoroughly the necessity for securing funds to continue the work. Tuberculosis cost the State of Pennsylvania last year 10,780 lives. Upon a conservative reckoning of $1 a day for loss of wage, and $1 a day while sick for each case, it cost in money million of dollars.

Against this loss in lives, sickness and money, the Pennsylvania society paid out for preventive and educational work last year $4,318.60. It must have for the coming year, if its present plans are to be carried out, and the campaign properly developed, $10,000. At present the treasury of the company is empty and work must be discontinued unless funds are secured.

Turkish Delight
A delicious confection is called Turkish delight. To make it, break one ounce of sheet gelatin into pieces and soak in half a cup of cold water for two hours. Weigh one pound of granulated sugar and put it in a granite pan with half a cup of cold water. Stand the pan over the fire and when the sugar is melted and comes to the boiling point add the gelatin and boil steadily for twenty minutes. Flavor with the rind and juice of an orange and a lemon. Wet a tin in cold water and turn this mixture in, having it about an inch in thickness, and stand away to harden. When it is jelled cut into inch-square pieces and roll them in confectioners' sugar. A few chopped nuts added with the flavoring are good.

Keep on Smiling

'Tis easy enough to be pleasant, when the world floats along like a song;

But the one for me, is the one who smiles when everything goes wrong,

For the test of the heart is trouble, and that always comes with the years,

But the smile that is worth all the places of earth, is the smile that shines through the tears.

Lesson IV.—Third Quarter, For July 26, 1908.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, I Sam. xv, 13-28. Memory Verse, 22—Golden Text, Josh. xxiv, 24—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

(Copyright, 1908, by American Press Association.)

In many ways the Lord is ever proving us to see if we are willing to be whole heartedly His and to walk in His ways, and He is also asking us to prove Him and see if He will not do just as He says (Gen. xxii, 1; Deut. viii, 2, 16; John vi, 6; Mal. iii, 10), that we may know Him and glorify Him in the eyes of others. In Jesus of Nazareth God found one who was perfectly His own in thought, word and deed, one who could say, "I delight to do Thy will, O my God; yea, Thy law is within my heart" (Ps. xl, 8). All others have failed in greater or less degree, but some have desired to live thus, and where God sees that desire He accepts it and makes much of it, for "if there be first a willing mind it is accepted according to that a man hath and not according to that he hath not" (II Cor. viii, 12). Saul soon proved himself willful and disobedient, and Samuel had to say to him: "Thy kingdom shall not continue. The Lord hath sought Him a man after His own heart who shall fulfill all His will" (chapter xiii, 14; Acts xiii, 22). The Lord tried Saul repeatedly, for He is long suffering, but again and again he failed. After the night at Samuel's house Samuel sent him to Gilgal, saying, "Seven days shalt thou tarry till I come to thee and shew thee what thou shalt do" (chapter x, 8). We read in chapter xiii, 8-14, that he tarried seven days, but evidently not quite the full time, and himself offered the offerings, and as soon as he had made an end of offering Samuel came and reproved him and said the words quoted above. Thus we see Saul taking upon himself to do what he had no right to and so impatient that he could not wait the full time. By little things God tests us, as when He tested Gideon's ten thousand.

In the lesson chapter today God again tries Saul by sending him to smite and utterly destroy the Amalekites, who were the first to fight with Israel after they left Egypt and concerning whom God said that He would put out the remembrance of them from under heaven (Ex. xvii, 8-16). Saul went forth and smote them as he had been commanded, but not fully, for it is written, "But Saul and the people spared Agag and the best of the sheep and of the oxen and of the fatlings and the lambs," etc. (verse 9). Yet Saul met Samuel with this greeting: "Blessed be thou of the Lord. I have performed the commandment of the Lord" (verse 13). This, however, was not the Lord's view of it, for He said to Samuel, "It repenteth Me that I have set up Saul to be king, for he is turned back from following Me and hath not performed My commandments" (verse 11). A word is in order here about this repenting of the Lord spoken of in this verse and in verse 25 and the seeming contradiction in verse 29, with which compare Num. xxiii, 19. It is impossible that God should change His mind or be sorry for anything He had done, as if things had turned out differently from what He had expected; but, foreseeing all events and knowing that at a certain point He would have to change His mode of procedure, when these turning points in the unfolding of His purpose come these are called His repentings. We change our mind and do otherwise; but, while God does otherwise than He had been doing, He never changes His mind. See in verses 20, 21, how Saul persists in saying that he had obeyed the voice of the Lord, but admitting that he had saved the best of the sheep and oxen to sacrifice unto the Lord. Then follows Samuel's stinging rebuke: "Behold, to obey is better than sacrifice. * * * Because thou hast rejected the word of the Lord He hath also rejected thee from being king" (verses 22, 23). See also in verse 26 the emphasis upon the fact that his partial obedience was a rejection of the word of the Lord. There is even in these days much partial belief of the Lord's messages, but few consider that a sin. Here is something to consider seriously—that a partial belief or obedience is a virtual rejection of His word. It is to be feared that many a preacher who is failing to declare the whole truth has no better excuse than that of Saul, "I feared the people and obeyed their voice" (verse 24). That man has surely missed his calling who while professing as a minister of Jesus Christ gives more thought to his congregation and how to please them than to pleasing Him whose messenger he professes to be. Such a one had better give heed to Gal. i, 10, "If I yet pleased men I should not be the servant of Christ" also I Thess. ii, 4, "Not as pleasing men, but God, who trieth our hearts."

It is sad to find that there are preachers who, knowing that if they preached the whole counsel of God they could not keep their situation, prefer to be false to God for the sake of their living. There are also many in the pulpit and out of it who, while professing hearty obedience to God, allow their hearts to carry them away and their eyes to wink at certain things (Job xv, 12) lest by being wholly conformed to God they should incur the displeasure of their friends. The whole-hearted life for God means a whole-hearted opposition to the world, the flesh and the devil. If we will follow Jesus Christ we must deny self and overcome the world.

The Cause of Many

Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Worth Knowing

Be prompt with home repairs and the house will look ten times smarter than when little damages are permitted to be in evidence.

Mother of pearl should never be washed with soap, for it discolors and destroys the brilliancy of the shell. The right method of cleaning is with whitening and cold water.

A tablespoonful of alum well stirred into four gallons of water will cause all impurities to settle to the bottom, when the water will be fit for use. Of course, the water must not be touched during the settling process.

When ironing handkerchiefs begin ironing in the middle. Ironing the edges first causes the middle to swell out, and makes it very difficult to iron and fold them properly. Test the iron on a piece of rag or paper, to prevent any accident by scorching.

When sprinkling clothes that have become too dry for ironing use warm water. It penetrates more quickly than cold and less of it is required, so that the ironing may be begun sooner.

Stains on blankets and other woolen materials may be removed by using a mixture of equal parts of glycerin and yolk of egg. Spread it on the stain, let it stay for half an hour or more, then wash it out.

Both time and trouble can be saved in scaling fish by first pouring hot water over them until the scales begin to curl. Then scrape quickly and wash in several waters, taking care that the last water is cold and well salted.

When cooking vegetables be sure that the water is boiling, not merely steaming when poured on them. If it is only hot or lukewarm the freshness and flavor will soak out into the water.

A paste of starch and flour will remove blood stains.

Cold water, a teaspoonful of ammonia and soap will remove grease where other methods would cause the colors to run.

To boil a cracked egg add a teaspoonful of salt to the water and it will cook without having any of the white come out.

Turn hot water cans upside down each time after using. It is the drop of water left that causes rust, and this is soon followed by a hole.

A Revelation.

It is a revelation to people, the severe cases of lung trouble that have been cured by Foley's Honey and Tar. It not only stops the cough but heals and strengthens the lungs. L. M. Ruggles, Reasnor, Iowa, writes: "The doctors said I had consumption, and I got no better until I took Foley's Honey and Tar. It stopped the hemorrhages and pain in my lungs and they are now as sound as a bullet." Ed. D. Heckerman.

Guineapigs

People who own pet guineapigs must remember that the little creatures suffer greatly for want of water. Clean, fresh water should be supplied for them as regularly as food.

The Remedy That Does.

"Dr. King's New Discovery is the remedy that does the healing others promise but fail to perform," says Mrs. E. R. Pierson, of Auburn Centre, Pa. "It is curing me of throat and lung trouble of long standing, that other treatments relieved only temporarily. New Discovery is doing me so much good that I feel confident its continued use for a reasonable length of time will restore me to perfect health." This renowned cough and cold remedy and throat and lung healer is sold at all druggists. 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Clean Money

Tainted money may be perfectly sanitary and the honest money of the saintly may be unclean. There are so many seemingly more important things in life than a campaign for clean money that we are apt to smile at the sanitary advocates, thinking that they are pursuing fairy lights instead of the sun. However, it is only necessary to consider what has been done since the germ theory was discovered to have faith in what may come about. The Treasury Department of the government is considering one way of escaping unclean money, and if it is adopted the department will replace soiled money by new if sent by registered mail. Another way that is being advocated is to encourage people to demand clean money at the banks and other places. If the demand becomes universal the government will surely find some way of putting new money to replace the soiled into circulation.

It is not necessary to go into details to show how money travels from place to place, from the sweatshop to the mansion. To help in the cause it has been suggested that whenever any one receives money in a dirty condition the coins be dropped in boiling water and the bills be ironed with a hot iron.—House-keeper.

There is one preparation known today that will promptly help the stomach. This is Kodol. Kodol digests all classes of food, and it does it thoroughly so that the use of Kodol for a time will without doubt help anyone who has stomach disorders or stomach trouble. Take Kodol today and continue it for the short time that is necessary to give you complete relief. Kodol is sold by Ed. D. Heckerman.

Health and Beauty

Cleanliness is essential to a good complexion, and a daily bath is not a luxury but a necessity.

The hair brush should be kept scrupulously clean.

To improve the contour of the face, try filling the cheeks with air and letting it explode with a soft explosive sound. Do this 15 or 20 times a day.

A glass of hot water taken just after rising, a half hour before breakfast, will cure indigestion.

Very hot water externally applied will stop dangerous bleeding.

Fresh air, exercise, proper diet and plenty of good cream will insure to every woman a complexion rivaling any cosmetics.

Clipping the ends of the hair about once a month stimulates the roots, causing the hair to grow. Dandruff should be cured at once, as it prevents the growth of the hair.

A dark line around the neck is often caused by wearing stiff, tight collars. Wear soft stocks and cleanse the neck with a good soap cream and bathe it in cold water.

Plenty of water between meals is good for the complexion.

A stout person should avoid all rich foods and pastry of all kinds.

War Against Consumption.

All nations are endeavoring to check the ravages of consumption, the "white plague" that claims so many victims each year. Foley's Honey and Tar cures coughs and colds perfectly and you are in no danger of consumption. Do not risk your health by taking some unknown preparation when Foley's Honey and Tar is safe and certain in results. E. D. Heckerman.

To Freshen Carpet

If your carpet is not dirty enough to come up, but needs cleaning this fall, cut an ounce of yellow soap into small squares, and make into a lather with a pint of boiling water. Add to this a quart of water and one ounce of borax.

Place the mixture on the range and bring it to the boil; then remove it, and when quite cold add an ounce each of alcohol and ammonia and half an ounce of glycerine.

Wipe over quite a small portion of the carpet at a time, and rub vigorously with a clean flannel, which should be repeatedly turned as it gets soiled, dipped in the mixture until all spots are removed and the color revived.

Best the World Affords.

"It gives me unbounded pleasure to recommend Bucklen's Arnica Salve," says J. W. Jenkins, of Chapel Hill, N. C. "I am convinced it's the best salve the world affords. It cured a felon on my thumb, and it never fails to heal every sore, burn or wound to which it is applied. 25c. at all druggists."

Cool Pillows

Save all blue grass clippings from the lawn, being careful not to rake deeply for fear of getting old dead grass. Leave the clippings in a loose pile in the sun for several days, turning them often. When dry they are ready for use. Stuff pillows for the beds or cushions for porch use. When made in this way they are as light in weight as hair cushions and much more sanitary. They have an odor that is sweeter than that of ordinary new mown hay, and are cool and delightful for the hot summer nights.

State Orchard Work.

Pursuant of a plan launched in this state this to demonstrate to the growers of fruit in either door-yards or orchards the utility of applying modern orchard methods in the cultivation and pruning of the trees and in the control of insect pests and plant diseases, was a meeting held in the Hall or Chapel of the Huntingdon Industrial Reform School at 1:30 p. m., yesterday, and in the orchard at 2:30.

Hon. N. B. Critchfield, Secretary of Agriculture; Prof. H. A. Surface, Economic Zoologist; James Bergy, Orchard Inspector and Demonstrator, and W. E. Grove, Orchard Demonstrator, each prominent in agricultural or horticultural work, were in attendance.

State work in the School orchard was begun with a pruning demonstration March 26, 1908, followed with subsequent demonstrations for control of scale insects and of codling moth, and coincidentally, of plant diseases.

Supremacy of the Ribbon

The ribbon now has a star role in the toilette.

Its vogue started in France and has reached us.

It is black, the favorite coiffure ornament.

This is of moire or taffeta and sometimes is set off with tassels.

Sometimes, too, the cravat is of a bright color to carry out the idea of the costume.

The elegants is devising many ways in which she can introduce ribbon.

For instance, she brings down from her hat a broad black ribbon and ties around her neck.

Or she slips through wide holes in her collar a band of black velvet which she ties behind.

Some of the Parisians even twist ribbon in their hair in the daytime.

The function of the kidneys is to strain out the impurities of the blood which are constantly passing through them. Foley's Kidney Remedy makes the kidneys healthy. They will strain out all waste matter from the blood. Take Foley's Kidney Remedy and it will make you well. Ed. D. Heckerman.

Trying to Force Girl Geniuses

Girls that have not the smallest vestige of taste for music, appreciable by the strongest microscope of optimism or charity, are often compelled to sit for hours practicing, punishing the piano and the neighbors, subjecting themselves to a mental irritation that is ruffling and destructive to clear thinking. Then when the day of reckoning comes, and an account of stock is taken, the parent, not finding the dividends proportional to the investment, mercifully calls the poor girl's attention to the hundreds of dollars spent in her musical education and accuses her of ingratitude in not being equal to her opportunity. It was really the parent that was not equal. A small fraction of the amount spent in this penal servitude to music, if expended in art, language of some power or taste in the direction of the girl's individuality, might have made her happy for years and have broadened her entire mental and moral development.—Sunday Magazine.

The Cotton Net Frock

It is seen everywhere. And is an inexpensive variation of the party frock.

It should not be made of filet net, for it does not wash well.

The wash net is used in dead white, and should be the old-fashioned cotton kind.

This should not be too coarse, for it will then suggest mosquito netting. It is a mistake to line this frock, for a pretty petticoat and corset cover make a more effective lining.

A good model for the skirt is a five-gore one with fine tucks all around the waist line.

The blouse may be draped in surprise fashion over the shoulders and arms.

It is finished with a high girdle of colored satin, the color of which may be repeated on the sleeves.

These sleeves are now generally made straight and plain and piped with the colored satin.

For Sunburn

The brown or sunburn may be removed by the following lotion, which will restore the skin to its natural color: Bichloride of mercury in coarse powder, 8 grains; witch-hazel, 2 ounces, rose water, 2 ounces. Agitate until a solution is obtained. Mop over the affected parts. Keep the preparation out of the way of ignorant persons and children.

Very often when one has a cold, the eyes feel hot and are red and inflamed. The best way to effect a cure is to bathe the eyes frequently with a solution of boric acid and water. If the eyes do not feel improved after your cold disappears, it would be well to consult an oculist.

Foley's Orino Laxative, the new laxative, stimulates, but does not irritate. It is the best laxative. Guaranteed or your money back. Ed. D. Heckerman.

GOMPERS' POSITION

Since Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, pledged his support in the coming campaign to the Democratic candidate for President of the United States and to the Denver platform, he has been assailed by many Republican papers, all of which attempted to make him out of his position by accusing him of attempting to control the votes of freemen and coerce members of the organization of which he is the head to cast their ballots for Bryan and the Democratic platform.

Mr. Gompers has prepared an editorial for the Federation journal in which he says that this effort on the part of the Republican papers is too ridiculous to be seriously considered. He will neither coerce nor attempt to coerce any member of the organization but he will use his influence for the party which shows itself by its official declarations to be Labor's friend.

Mr. Gompers has been a Republican and was interested in the presentation to the Republican National Convention at Chicago of an injunction plank favoring equal rights to all before the law and condemning the misuse of judicial power. The Republican convention, dominated by the influences of trusts and corporations, thrust it aside and adopted a plank which Mr. Gompers declares to be a "humy, tricky evasion of the issue."

While the champion of Labor's cause declares absurd any promise to "deliver the labor vote" and clearly recognizes the right of every elector to vote for any candidate he chooses, he goes on to say: "We have no hesitation in urging the workers * * * to support the party in this campaign which has shown its sympathy with our wrongs and its desire to remedy them."

The trusts use their influence for the party that maintains the robber tariff which enabled them to come into existence and permits their perpetuation. Why should not labor leaders favor the party which is friendly to labor. The Republican party in national convention assembled turned a deaf ear to Labor's just pleadings, while the Democratic party heard the cry against the wrongs which President Roosevelt, himself, condemned in a message to Congress and, in a platform plank, pledged itself to the righting of these wrongs.

BRYAN AT HOME

Nebraska Visited by an Altoona Visitor.
D. Lloyd Claycomb, Esq., of Altoona, formerly of this county, called on the Democratic Presidential nominee at his rural home at Fairview recently, and wrote the following to the Altoona papers:

"It is a rare opportunity that any one has to visit the home of 'The Great Commoner.' It was my privilege yesterday to call on Mr. Bryan at his palatial residence at Fairview. Upon entering Lincoln, one's attention is immediately attracted to the pictures of Mr. Bryan which hang in the depot and from the windows in the private homes and public places and on all the streets throughout the city. And great placards are seen containing, 'Welcome to Bryan's town.'"

"Fairview, the home of Mr. Bryan, is four miles out of the city, and is reached by trolley, which runs within 150 yards of Bryan's home. The ride to Fairview is beautiful; magnificent homes and farms are found all along the way. A visitor, when about one and one-half miles out of Lincoln, see for the first time the beautiful home of Mr. Bryan. It is situated on an elevated site, the land on all sides gradually sloping away from it. A vineyard containing the choicest fruit lies on the southern slope from the house. Trees which are kept trimmed by Mr. Bryan cannot be surpassed for symmetry. Mr. Bryan's farm of 150 acres which is productive of fine crops lies all around this house. He has seven fine horses, and the hen (to which he doffed his hat when he returned from abroad) are numerous.

"Entering Mr. Bryan's home he meets you with his characteristic broad smile and with a handshake that almost makes you feel as though he had been anxiously waiting to see you.

"Mr. Bryan is a lover of comfort in his home, despising much linen in hot weather. He was attired in a light soft shirt, a low collar, with a black string tie, somewhat carelessly tied, and a furtive sack coat.

"I was fortunate in having made my visit when I did, for the newspaper men at the entrance to Fairview were enjoying their afternoon sleep and Mr. Bryan had the time to himself.

"It was certainly my great pleasure to be taken by Mr. Bryan through his home. In his magnificent library are found all kinds of carols. Works of the finest art from at home and abroad, presented to Mr. Bryan by his friends, are found here, with images of heathen worship, instruments of warfare from all foreign countries, tapestries of great intrinsic values, making up the decorations in this magnificent home.

"Mr. Bryan's library particularly appeals to me. Here are found works of all the great authors. Statuary and handsome paintings of the walls and a bust of Mr. Bryan has its place on a pedestal. Books dealing with economic, historical, sociological and theological questions make up the greatest portion of his library, but a very little bit of fiction being found. The atmosphere of the library suggests culture, thought and greatness.

"The room in which Mr. Bryan spends most of his time is a den in which might be called the basement. Mr. Bryan speaks of it as 'the ground floor.' Here is where I met what the people of Lincoln call 'the sweetest woman in Nebraska,' Mrs. Bryan. Mrs. Bryan looks like her pictures, except that her face seems marked with lines which indicate hard work and close application to her duties as assistant and adviser to Mr. Bryan.

"Just a word in regard to their home life. I am informed that Mr. and Mrs. Bryan rise in the morning at 5 o'clock, Mrs. Bryan preparing the breakfast. Mr. Bryan, when not away from home, works on the farm as both driver and team. Ofttimes they both drive the team of heavy farm horses into town and go about shopping and to the grocery store. When Mr. Bryan leaves on a lecture tour, Mrs. Bryan often brings him into the depot in a low wheeled, open buggy, and on her way back home stops at the meat market or store to leave her order for groceries, and at all times is as unpretentious as though she were the wife of the most humble citizen."

CHAFIN AND WATKINS

Named by Prohibitionists as Standard-Bearers.

The Prohibition National Convention in Columbus, O., on Thursday of last week nominated Eugene W. Chafin of Watkins for President and Aaron S. Watkins of Ada, O., for Vice President. Both nominations were made unanimous.

On the first two ballots Mr. Chafin did not show a great amount of strength, receiving but 195 out of 1,087 votes on the first and 376 out of 1,087 on the second ballot. His nomination was assured, however, when the roll call began for the third ballot. His own state, which had voted largely for Daniel R. Sheen of Peoria, and the New York delegation, followed by those of Indiana and Wisconsin, came over to Mr. Chafin and on the third ballot he received a total of 636 votes.

The strongest competitor of Mr. Chafin was Rev. William B. Palmore of St. Louis, who received 274 votes on the first ballot and more than 400 on the second.

It was then decided to make Mr. Palmore the Vice Presidential nominee, and he was named by acclamation. He declined to accept the office, however, and persisted in his attitude despite the strong urgings of his friends.

Finally it was decided that Prof. Aaron S. Watkins of Ada, O., should be named by acclamation. There was no opposition to him at the moment and Chairman Charles Scanlan was on the chair of declaring Professor Watkins the nominee when delegates in various parts of the hall broke in with a flood of motions, amendments and suspensions of rules.

An extended debate finally resulted in the restoration of the rules and in a ballot for the Vice Presidency three men were named: Professor Watkins, W. B. Demaree of Kentucky and Charles S. Holler of Indiana. The ballot resulted in the nomination of Professor Watkins by an overwhelming majority and he was immediately thereafter, upon motion of the Kentucky delegates, made the unanimous choice of the convention.

Both the Presidential and Vice Presidential nominees are candidates for Governor in their respective states on the Prohibition ticket.

HECKERMAN LETTER

P-Nut Man Visits Niagara Falls—Reaches Other Points.

I have devoted this entire Sunday to the seeing of all I could see at this place. I have not been here for some years and everything save the falls has changed in the interim.

Niagara Falls, "earth's grandest sight," is majestic to be "the emblem of God's majesty." Among some of the attempts to describe Niagara Falls may be quoted the following: "Of all the sights on this earth, of which tourists travel to see, at least all of those that the writer has seen, I shall give the palm to the Falls of Niagara. In the list of such sights I intend to include all buildings, all pictures and wonders of art made by man's hands, and also all the beauties of nature made by God to delight all." At Niagara there is the fall of water alone which makes the everlasting rainbow. Fanny Kemble says, "I lifted up mine eyes and beheld Niagara; Oh, God! who can describe that sight?" The first description of the falls was published away back in 1633 by a Frenchman. The height of the horse-shoe falls is 160 feet and Mrs. Anna Edson Taylor shot the same in 1901 in a barrel and survived to tell of the experience; a feat never before accomplished. When one looks at it they think no one could go through and live. The water between the falls and the rapids is 180 feet, we are told. The water looks green and to the eye it is green. This is caused by its great depth.

Since I was here before three bridges have been built, the last one in 1898, is 1,240 feet long and is 192 feet above the water. The floor-way is 46 feet wide and is used for electric trolley, carriage and foot passenger. The length of one span is 840 feet, said to be the longest in the world. There is a small steamer just below the falls; 'tis the "Maid of the Mist," so called because it is always in the mist that arises below the falls. No one should say that they have been to Niagara and not taken this trip across the river just below the falls. Thousands will visit Niagara for the first time. They will drink in its beauty and feast their eyes on the many view points and go home with their minds filled with awe of its loveliness. Many of these will never be permitted to view it again, hence all should get the best view of the great cataract and this is best done by taking a ride on the boat, "Maid of the Mist," and a trolley ride around and through Niagara Gorge. They will charge you a dollar for the ride and offer to let you off at half dozen places where they flatter you to see something that is much better seen from the car as it makes its regular trip. So keep your seat; the trip takes about an hour and a half and is well worth the money. Aside from the scenic attractions Niagara abounds in historic lore. Indian legends are connected with every point of interest; the stories of battles, "skirmishes and such," many of which have a national meaning, and these, when related by an intelligent cab driver who has made a study of them and is a Siamese twin coachman and historian, are well worth the fare.

The government reservation was opened July 15, 1885; it includes the Islands as well as the land on the main shore and contains about a million acres. 'Tis said that two hundred strangers visit here each year to see the gorgeous sight that I told you of. You want to get on to the largest street car you ever saw, marked "Bolt Line," they go every few moments and when you reach Lewiston, which is where the loop is, you can and should, if you have the time, get off of the trolley and take a very large and handsome steamer for a sail down the river and through the thousand islands of the St. Lawrence, also the Lachine rapids, landing you at Montreal, Can., for supper.

Before the boat shoots the rapids they stop her and give every one who desires a chance to finish the trip by rail. Many are afraid to go through the rapids in the boat and I must confess that it makes one feel sort of queer as he sees the big Indian Baptiste mount the box, and take hold of the wheel to steer the boat through the rapids for one slight twist or wrong move of his would likely cause all on board to be lost, as the boat would be dashed against the rocks and crushed.

The electric railway runs along the brink of the cliff on the Canadian side of the Niagara Gorge. At the falls this line of cars (the belt line) runs close to the cataract and within the cloud of spray. The suspension bridge marks the beginning of the whirlpool rapids. This road follows the bank of the river, thus keeping in view the constantly waters, and the rapids are constantly in view. Near the river bank on the Canadian side stands the Brock Monument which on a clear day can be seen for forty miles, they say. It was unveiled in 1860 by King Edward, and marks the spot where Brock was wounded. I, of course, have not told you a hundredth part about this place. Today is a scorcher and thousands are here from all over the land and especially from Buffalo, N. Y., which is about twenty miles away; fare for round trip, half a dollar. These visitors are all seeking the shady nooks and lazily enjoying themselves. All stores and bars are open. I saw almost everything but a church today. Leaving Buffalo on the trolley, which runs along as smoothly as the H. & B. T. at a schedule rate of twenty-five miles an hour it did not take long to reach Rochester. There are hundreds of acres planted in wheat all along the way and the wheat is not cut yet. Potatoes and onions are grown largely all along the way. Rochester is a beautiful city. There are twenty thousand Italians in the city and not over two hundred negroes. Main street, Rochester, is a model of beauty at night.

I next took a trolley for Geneva and passed along Lake Seneca. My, the grapes that are grown all along the way, and one certainly feasts his eye on the beautiful scenery as he goes along. 'Tis 51 miles from Rochester to Geneva; fare on trolley 90c. At Geneva you face the lake and the sight is great. Then I had to take steam cars for Auburn where the big state prison is situated. I got in the neck at Auburn, the first town that I got no business in since I left Pittsburg. I, of course, was disgusted and boarded a trolley at 9 p. m. for Syracuse, 27 miles more, but I live to tell you of it. That day I had 78 miles by trolley and 60 by steam. Well, when I went to the Yates House to stay and was told that their lowest rate on the American plan was $3.50 a day, my heart went down into my boots, eh! shoes, for my cash was limited. Next I'll try to tell you something of Syracuse, etc. Concord, N. H., American House, is where I'll expect next paper.

Yours truly,
M. P. Heckerman.

The dry weather is hard on the oats, corn, potatoes and buckwheat.

There will be a festival held at Point Saturday evening, July 25. The money raised will be used for getting material for painting the inside of the United Evangelical church.

Your correspondent was absent last week from home attending to business relating to the Cold Harbor Battlefield Commission at Harrisburg and did not get home in time to give any items from Point. The commission, consisting of President Capt. P. F. Hodge of Swissvale, Secretary Josiah Hissong of Point, Treasurer Capt. P. D. Bricker of Jersey Shore, also Capt. C. F. Gramlich of Philadelphia and Capt. W. S. Underwood of West Chester, met at the Lochiel Hotel in Harrisburg on Monday, July 13, and opened the bids and awarded the contract for the erection of a soldiers monument in the national cemetery at Cold Harbor, Va., to J. Henry Brown of Richmond, Va. Mr. Brown owns his own quarries near Richmond and the Richmond granite has stood the test by the officials of the government, and was used in the City of Washington in some of the finest government buildings; it is considered one of the best monumental granites in the United States. The monument is to cost $4,050 and is to be erected this fall.

The Pennsylvania regiments that are to be honored by this monument are as follows: Second Prov. H. A., the 2nd Veteran H. A., the 13th Pa. Vol. Vet. Cav., 55th, 58th, 76th, 97th, 157th, 183rd, 184th, 187th, 188th, 190th and 191st. The monument will not be dedicated and turned over to the government until some time between the 1st and 13th of June 1909, as the commission expects to get a bill through the next Legislature making an appropriation for transportation for all comrades of the said regiments who are able to go.

Hints for Preserving

The first consideration is a preserving kettle of brass polished until lustrous and with no stain of fruit.

This is the sort of vessel used by the old-fashioned housewife and the jellies of our grandmothers have never been equaled.

Porcelain kettles should be discarded as soon as they commence to crack and tin; iron or pewter should never be used.

The best jelly bag is a long one made of flannel, which is made in a point at the bottom.

This should never be squeezed in order to hasten the dropping or a discoloration of the fruit will result.

In selecting fruit the greatest care should be taken to see that it is not overripe.

Berries that have been picked more than 24 hours are too old to make good jellies and preserves.

A cheesecloth bag will be found useful in straining the fruit through the colander.

To keep jelly and jam from molding on top the fruit should be covered with paper dipped in brandy.

Jelly glasses without fitted tin or glass tops can be covered by pieces of writing paper.

These pieces should be dipped in the unbeaten whites of an egg and pasted at once over the glass.

Plenty of sugar makes rich and luscious preserves and makes the fruit keep much longer.

To prevent jars from cracking when the hot preserves are poured in them set on cloths dipped in cold water and partly wrung out.

Hives, eczema, itch or salt rheum set you crazy. Can't bear the touch of your clothing. Doan's Ointment cures the most obstinate cases. Why suffer. All druggists sell it.

FASHION NOTES

The striped collar, embroidered with colored dots or colored pattern, is the most popular of all those now offered in the shops.

Among the worsteds are striped pieces with wide checked borders, which come in white and brown, white and old rose, etc.

In spite of the difficulty of managing them under coats, it seems likely that Japanese armholes will continue through the summer.

The two piece tailored suit is being replaced by the gown with the separate coat wrap that harmonizes with it in color, if not in material.

Hat crowns seem to be increasing in size. Some of the most gigantic crowns have narrow brims, while in other hats both crowns and brims are enormous.

Jaunty little Frenchy coats of cretonne and a parasol to match are seen with white or colored linen and pique skirts on this season's summer girl.

The Stout Woman Must—

Not wear separate waists. The contrasting white makes her look elephantine.

Nor a contrasting belt. It gives the effect of a big broad waist.

Nor carry a muff nor parcel. It accents the clumsiness of her waist.

Dress her shoulders to look broad.

Japanese effects will do wonders.

Wear a high pompadour. It bestows height and the desired reed-like figure.

Carry a well-rolled umbrella. An English beauty discovered the walking stick was an adjunct to beauty.

Wear black or dark colors. They always impose an effect of slenderness.

Carry her chin up well. The woman who dips her chin will look stouter than she is.

Affect long sleeves. Short sleeves confess the fatness of arms.

Never put on rouge. It makes a stout face look much coarser.

Affect high heels, long trains and a big hat. They all argue thinness effectually.

DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is good for cuts, burns, bruises and scratches. It is especially good for piles. Recommended and sold by Ed. D. Heckerman.

Lucky Brunettes

"You are lucky," said the first mother to the second, "in having a brown-eyed baby." "Where does the luck come in besides that of his being good looking?" inquired the second.

"Because brown-eyed babies are immune from many of the infantile ills that blue-eyed children always have. I've seen it work dozens of times and heard doctors admit it. Blondes catch everything, but brunettes get off easy."

Keep Busy

There would be fewer empty hearts if there were more occupied minds and busier bodies. Both the body and the mind are restless when they have nothing to do. Keep busy; exercise, stir around. Activity is the law of the universe. Even the world has to take its daily exercise and turn itself about.

The Psyche Knot is Back Again

The Psyche knot, so becoming to certain features, is again to the fore, says the New Idea Woman's Magazine for August. The hair is parted, and the long hairs on the crown of the head are tied firmly with a soft string. A braid may here be added to form the Psyche knot, if the hair is thin. The rest of the hair may be frise or readjusted over an inexpensive cushion.

Soft ribbon to match the gown can be wound about the Psyche knot, can be, for special occasions, mingled with delicate leaves and flowers. The Psyche knot takes kindly to ornamentation, yet none of its classic beauty is lost by the addition of ribbons or of a comb of flowers.

An extremely pretty fashion of the late summer, which Dame Fashion has decided shall extend over to the autumn and even into the winter, is to surround the knot of this mode of coiffure with a snood of ribbon. A soft silk one is effective, especially so when the general tone of the costume is carried out in its color. A velvet ribbon of a narrow width may also be used, but the fabric must be of a crushable, pliable quality, to lie closely against the hair. This form of garniture is wound in a graceful way about the Psyche knot and tied in a bow.

A Free Scholarship

Don't use harsh physics. The reaction weakens the bowels, leads to chronic constipation. Get Doan's Reglets. They operate easily, tone the stomach, cure constipation.

Raspberry Granite

A granite is a grained ice, which is served like a sorbet in little glasses, usually just before or after the roast. For one made from raspberries take three pints of raspberries, one cupful of sugar, one cupful of water and the juice of one lemon. Boil the sugar and water together for five minutes; take from the fire, add the strained juice of the raspberries and lemon. When cold pack in a freezer and set away without working. At the end of an hour scrape the sides of the freezing-can with a long flexible knife, mixing what has frozen with the rest of the more liquid portion; do not beat it, as it should be coarse and grainy with ice particles through it. Close and set aside again, opening and mixing three times in as many hours. At the end of that time stir in a pint of the whole fruit and serve.

The Best Vacation

Of all vacations there are few that have an appeal to the tired city slave like that of a vacation in "the woods." The piny woods! What a picture of out-of-door life the woods suggest. A picture of untrammelled freedom, of "roughing it," of majestic forest aisles, and velvety floors of pine needles. A long log cabin with bunks and a big general eating room, with a great fireplace about which to sit in the evening! A silver lake and a golden moon that shines down on you as you drift with some one, very pretty and temporarily very dear, in the boat with you. That is the picture that entices the shop-worn denizen of the busy places.—Appleton's.

Clear Barley Water

Though usually associated with the sick room, barley water is an excellent summer drink, and is offered in quite the best houses. It contains a large amount of nutriment, while at the same time it is refreshing. It would be well if it were oftener given to children in the place of milk, which, when cold, is somewhat heavy and hardly refreshing.

Put tablespoonfuls of barley into a saucepan, cover it with cold water, allow it to come to a boil for five minutes. Strain out the barley, throwing away the water. Put the barley into a pitcher with the thinly pared rind of a lemon, add four lumps of sugar and one pint of boiling water and serve it. If it is liked very strongly flavored with lemon, add some of the juice of the lemon to it.

To Freshen Flowers

To revive flowers which have been packed and carried for some distance, plunge the stalks into hot water, and allow them to stand till the water is cold. Then cut off the ends of the stalks, and arrange the flowers in cold water. Thus treated flowers will last wonderfully in vases.

To Can Beets

Cook the beets until tender, then slice as for use at the table. One quart of water, one cup vinegar, one-half cup of granulated sugar; boil all together, then drop the beets in the liquor and let them stay until it boils. Put in glass cans, seal tightly and keep in a dark place.

Scarfs

Scarfs have become a more necessary addition to each costume, sometimes being the only note of color to relieve a gown of natural color. They are worn in every conceivable way, hanging loosely over the arms, knotted on the side, thrown over one shoulder, etc.

Bunion Cure

Bunions are generally caused by wearing tight shoes. The shoe rubs against the foot and makes it very sore.

Use the following recipe: Two fluid drams of carbolic acid, two fluid drams of glycerine. Apply with a dam's of glycerine. Apply with a camel's hair brush daily.

Ear Ringing

"Ringing" in the ears is a most peculiar condition. It is interesting to learn that, though the brain so distinctly receives an impression of sound, there is really no sound at all. The sensation is produced by derangement of the nerves of the ear, caused by poor circulation, or such pressure and interference as comes from hardened, excessive wax, boils, etc. Some one oddly remarked that when the ears were ringing they were "insane." Truly, they carry wrong impressions to the brain; they record things that do not happen.

A Candle Trick.

Let a candle burn until it has a good long snuff, then blow it out with a sudden puff. A bright wreath of white smoke will curl up from the hot wick. Now, if a flame be applied to this smoke, even at a distance of two or three inches from the candle, the flame will run down the smoke and rekindle the wick in a very fantastic manner. To perform this ceremony nicely there must be no draft or "banging" doors while the mystic spell is rising.

His Fate.

The race of consequential vergers is not yet extinct. Dean Pigoe has a story about one of them, who, when a bishop asked him at what point he was to make his appearance, replied:

"First I take the choir people to their places, and then, after they are seated, I return for you, my lord, and conduct you to the altar."—London Telegraph

Five and one-half days will be spent in the Park, one day in Portland, one day in Vancouver, one day at Field, B. C., one day at Laggan, Alta., one day at Banff, and stops will be made at many other points of interest. The tour will cover a period of twenty-two days.

As an educational trip for either teacher or scholar, this tour is especially attractive, as it covers a section of America rich in scenery and replete with the marvelous manifestations of nature.

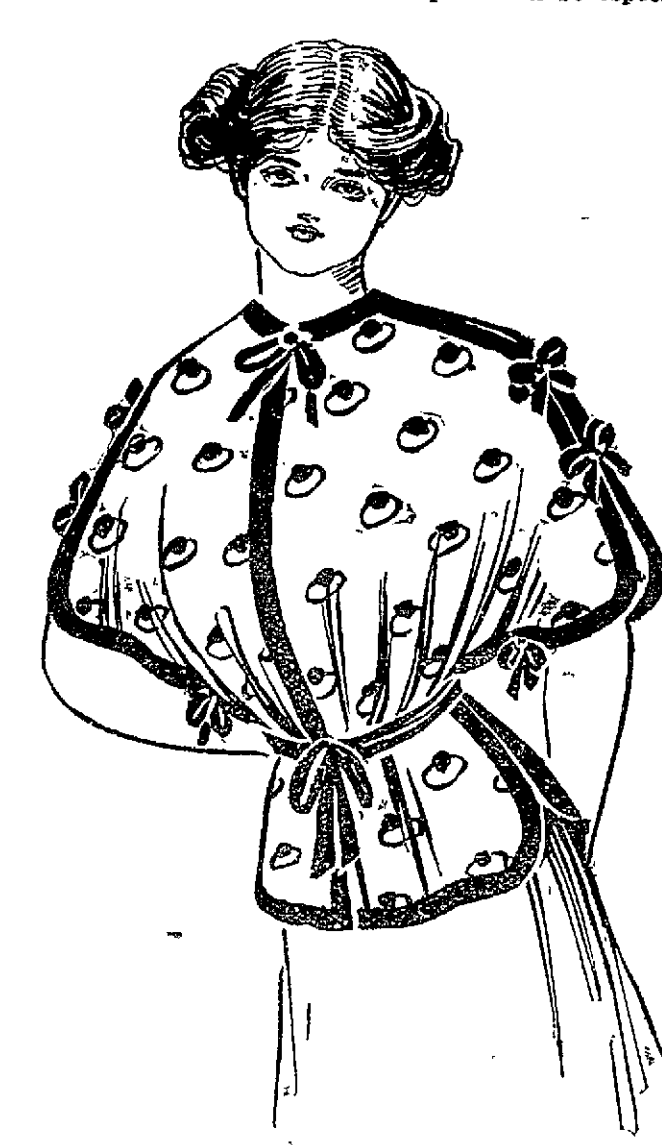

The rates, which will cover all necessary expenses, will be $246 from New York, $243.20 from Philadelphia, $241.20 from Washington and Baltimore, $230.80 from Pittsburgh, and proportionate from other points.

Preliminary leaflets may be obtained of Agents, and detailed itineraries will be ready for distribution shortly. Persons desiring to avail themselves of this opportunity to visit the Park of the Nation should make application for Pullman space early, as the party will be limited. Make application through local Ticket Agent or address Geo. W. Boyd, General Passenger Agent, Broad Street Station, Philadelphia.

DAINTY THREE PIECE SACK.

As warm weather is here, one cannot have too many dainty and comfortable garments of this kind. The model illustrated will be found serviceable developed in India linen, Irish dimity, organdie, cotton voile or a pretty flowered silk. The edges are bound with a pretty contrasting color, and ribbons are used to catch the open sleeves. A Japanese pattern cotton crape would be especially dainty, a pale blue and white, with the edges finished with bands of white lawn cut on the bias.

Another pretty mode is to finish a dotted swiss with lawn with a dainty rosebud pattern in pink. In this instance the ribbons were in pink to match the pink in the bands. If one desires a sack of the more elaborate order, a pretty pale blue china silk can be used for its construction and a cluny insertion used to finish the edges all around. In place of the ribbon at the waist line, the fullness is arranged and a belt of lace stitched in place and the material cut from underneath.

If one is handy with her needle and cares to take the time, an attractive finish can be given the edges by working it in a button-hole scallop with three polka dots in each scallop. If white lawn is used, the edges would be pretty in blue.

This three piece sack has the sleeves cut in one with the body. The pattern is cut in seven sizes—from 32 to 44 inches bust measure. To copy this garment for the average person it requires 15 yards of material 36 inches wide or 15 yards 44 inches wide.

Any reader of this paper who desires to secure this pattern may do so by sending 10 cents to this office. Give the number, 4162, state size desired and write the full address plainly. The pattern will be forwarded promptly by mail.

MILK POWDER.

Great Trade Can Be Built Up For Product, It Is Believed.

The Creamery Journal of London predicts a bright future for the milk powder trade. It says: Now that practical processes have been invented for the conversion of milk into powder the question of the possibilities of such a business demands the attention of all creamery proprietors and managers. The great difficulty in most manufacturing businesses is the proper utilization of byproducts. Now, separated milk in creameries is practically a waste material. It fetches on the average a price of a penny per gallon. It can only be sold in the immediate neighborhood of the creameries, as carriage to a distance is not possible at such a price.

The process referred to gets rid of practically the whole of the water contained in the milk, and the residue of milk powder amounts to only about one-tenth of the weight of the milk. Even were it possible to send the separated milk economically to a distance the heavy cost of the packages required would be a very serious drag on the business. But the milk powder is forwarded in any ordinary light commercial package that can stand the strain of a railway journey.

For wholesale purposes it may be packed in bags, like flour, at practically no cost whatever. The trade being a perfectly practical one, the next question is, What are the possibilities of finding a successful market for the product? And it seems to us that if milk powder is properly placed on the market it will find innumerable profitable outlets. It will be used in enormous quantities by biscuit manufacturers and by bakers and confectioners to a large extent in the manufacture of milk bread, cakes and pastry of various sorts. As it will keep for any length of time, it will obviously be invaluable on board ship.

DOCTORING CATTLE.

Drenching Is Dangerous and Often Proves Fatal, Says a Veterinarian.

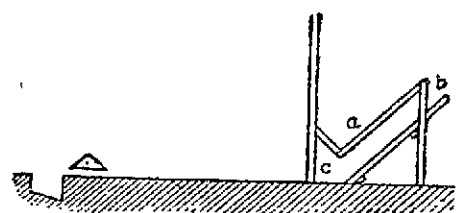

Dr. David Roberts, Wisconsin state veterinarian, gives this advice:

Perhaps the best way of demonstrating the danger of drenching cattle is to advise the reader to throw back his head as far as possible and attempt to swallow. This you will find to be a difficult task, and you will find it more difficult and almost impossible to swallow with the mouth open. It is for this reason that drenching cattle is a dangerous practice. If a cow's head be raised as high as possible and her mouth kept open by the drenching bottle or horn a portion of the liquid is very apt to pass down the windpipe into the lungs, sometimes causing instant death by smothering, at other times causing death to follow in a few days from congestion or inflammation of the lungs.

Give all cattle their medicine hypodermically or in feed. If they refuse feed give it dry on the tongue. The proper method of giving a cow medicine is to stand on the right side of the cow, placing the left arm around the nose and at the same time opening her mouth, and with a spoon in the right hand place the medicine, which should be in a powdered form, back on the tongue. She can then swallow with safety.

A Two Feed Rack.

A New York dairyman has a hay and grain rack for cows which, he says, is a great help when these two feeds are given at the same time. The hay is put in space a, and then the grain is poured in at b, and the cow eats it at

c. The part of the rack holding the hay may be made of slats and will thus be easier to keep clean. Both of these racks are kept in place by 2 by 3 strips running lengthwise of the manger.

Handling the Boar.

The boar should have plenty of exercise. This is productive of well developed muscles and general thrift. Soundness of reproductive organs will usually follow. During the breeding season it will not be possible for him to get the same amount of exercise, and accordingly care must be taken that his energies are not wasted by unnecessary service. Careful feeding will do much to counteract this. It must always be remembered that the drains on a boar at this time are severe, especially if fifty or sixty sows are served. This will require ample feed, with as much exercise as possible and careful treatment. A fully matured boar should not serve more than two sows daily, preferably one in the morning and one in the afternoon. In this way he can serve fifty or sixty in a season without difficulty.—George M. Rommel.

The Only One of Its Kind.

The Shawnee Alfalfa Club is the only one of its kind on earth, according to the Kansas Farmer. It holds monthly meetings on the afternoon of the last Saturday in each month and discusses appropriate topics—as, for instance, "Alfalfa Pests."

Feet of the Colts.

Keep the feet of colts even or ungroundness may result. Do not allow the toes to grow too long. Ringbones are often caused by long toes. Keep the colts' stalls well littered. One slip on a wet floor may ruin a valuable colt.

A Woman's Back.

Has many aches and pains caused by weakness and falling, or other displacement of the pelvic organs. Other symptoms of female weakness are frequent headache, dizziness, imaginary specks or dark spots floating before the eyes, gnawing sensation in stomach, dragging or bearing down in lower abdominal or pelvic region, disagreeable drains from pelvic organs, faint spells with general weakness.

If any considerable number of the above symptoms are present there is no remedy that will give quicker relief or a more permanent cure than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It has a record of over forty years of cures. It is the most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nerve known to medical science. It is made of the glyceric extracts of native medicinal roots found in our forests and contains not a drop of alcohol or harmful, or habit-forming drugs. Its ingredients are all printed on the bottle wrapper and attested under oath as correct.

Every ingredient entering into "Favorite Prescription" has the written endorsement of the most eminent medical writers of all the several schools of practice—more valuable than any amount of non-professional testimonials—though the latter are not lacking, having been contributed voluntarily by grateful patients in numbers to exceed the endorsements given to any other medicine extant for the cure of woman's ills.

You cannot afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for this well proven remedy of known composition, even though the dealer may make a little more profit thereby. Your interest in regaining health is paramount to any selfish interest of his and it is an insult to your intelligence for him to try to palm off upon you a substitute. You know what you want and it is his business to supply the article called for.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original "Little Liver Pills" first put up by old Dr. Pierce over forty years ago, much imitated but never equaled. Little sugar-coated granules—easy to take as candy.

A Bibulous Lord Mayor.

Any one with a love of queer names should study the names of past lord mayors of London. Besides one or two that are merely uncommon and did not belong to men of any distinction, such as Sir Richard Spyn, mayor in 1482, there are some that deserve notice also for the sake of those who bore them. There was Sir John Brugges in 1520, whose ancestor fought at Agincourt, when, curiously enough, the name had the more modern form of Brydges. There was Alderman Micaiah Perry in 1779 who laid the first stone of the Mansion House, and Sir Benjamin Hall, who was fined £1,000 in 1797 for refusing to act as mayor—positively a cheap way of getting out of it.

The most appropriately named lord mayor seems, however, to have been the cheerful Sir Robert Viner, who entertained Charles II and drank the king's health, so often as to become unduly merry. The king tactfully sought to retire, but Viner plucked him by the sleeve and vowed he should "stay and take the other bottle!" Charles II, never at a loss, complied, murmuring, "He that is drunk is as great as a king."—St. James' Gazette.

Awed by the Beau.

When Beau Brummel, the celebrated dandy, was, in consequence of his fallen fortunes, residing at Calais, he had occasion to visit Paris. Through the kindness of the consul at the former place he was enabled to accompany a king's messenger to the capital and thus travel free of expense. When the messenger returned, the consul was curious to know how he and his aristocratic companion had fraternized upon the road. "What kind of a traveling companion did you find Mr. Brummel?" asked he. "Oh, a very pleasant one, indeed, sir; very pleasant," replied the messenger. "Ah! And what did he say?" "Say, sir? Nothing! He slept the whole way." "Slept the whole way! Do you call that being pleasant? Perhaps he snored!" The messenger acknowledged that Brummel did so, but immediately, as if fearful of casting an improper reflection upon so great a personage, he added, with great gravity, "Yet I can assure you, sir, Mr. Brummel snored very much like a gentleman!"—Argonaut.

Plated Tin Spoons.

Here is one way of making spoons, the process described being used in the manufacture of one variety of tin plated spoons.

In its original form the material from which these spoons are made comes in long thin strips of steel rolled to a uniform thickness. The strips are twelve or fifteen feet in length and of a width sufficient for the length of the spoon to be made. These strips are fed into a cutting machine, which cuts off pieces, each of sufficient size for making a spoon, these being simply so many small, flat pieces of sheet steel.

Then these blanks are put through a grader, a machine with powerful rolls, which so works the metal as to make it thinner in those parts of the blank that are to form the bowl and the handle of the spoon and thicker in the middle of the length of the blank from which the shank of the spoon will be made, so that it will be the better able to bear the bending strain that will be put upon the spoon in use.

From the grader the blank goes into a drop press, which cuts it into the outline form of a spoon, though from this press it comes out still flat.

Then in another press the bowl of the spoon is formed, and then in still another the handle, and so at last you have the spoon in its complete spoon shape in steel, ready now to be plated by dipping it in molten tin.—New York Sun.

THE STOCK RAM.

Pedigree and Individual Excellence of Vast Importance.

Many of those who own small flocks only as a side line don't realize the importance of buying rams of good qualities and pure breeding. It is a shortsighted policy to purchase an inferior ram because he can be got for a few dollars less than one that is well bred and of individual excellence.

The line bred ram has the propensity that stamps his desirable qualities on his get. Usually the get of the grade lacks uniformity. He is as likely to transmit some of the undesirable traits of some of his mongrel ancestors. No matter how good an individual he may be, his inability to transmit with certainty his own good points disqualifies him.

Professor Thomas Shaw says that where but a small flock of sheep is kept and but one ram there are no serious objections to allowing the ram to graze with the flock when the pastures are good, but should the flock be large and the rams many it is different.

Where several stock rams are kept they are given a small pasture by themselves. If they can be given a change of pasture occasionally they are likely to do better, but this is frequently found impracticable. As stock rams are usually grained somewhat heavily at the mating season, the aim should be to bring them through a portion of the summer at least without grain.

This can usually be done when the grazing is plentiful, nutritious and succulent. The effect on the system is cooling, the digestion is less taxed, and the influence exerted is renovating. But when the season draws near for service it may be necessary to feed grain to them again, that they may begin the season's service strong and vigorous.

THE SHEPHERD.

A prosperous sheep man says: One of the most important things in making the sheep business profitable is care. Sheep feel neglect, and there is always failure where they are kept in a shiftless, careless way. Every year raise lambs that are better than their dams, and your success is assured. Take good care of the ewes. This care ought to begin before the lambs come. Getting ready is always the most important part of all. The ewes should have the best hay and grain we have in the crib. Musty hay will not do. Heavy grain is not the thing for the last few weeks before the lambs come. Keep salt before the sheep at all times. They eat lots of it.

Sheep and Dogs.

We have kept sheep for the last twenty years and never had a dog bother them, says a Maryland breeder. If you will put sheep bells on about half of your flock you will not be bothered with dogs. A sheep dog is a sneak thief and will not go where he will make a noise. Put fifty bells on a hundred sheep, and you need not lose any sleep listening for dogs. The bells cost 75 cents per dozen, straps about the same price. I live in a dairy section, but some farmers keep sheep, and dogs attack only the flocks that are not belled.

Weeds and Sheep.

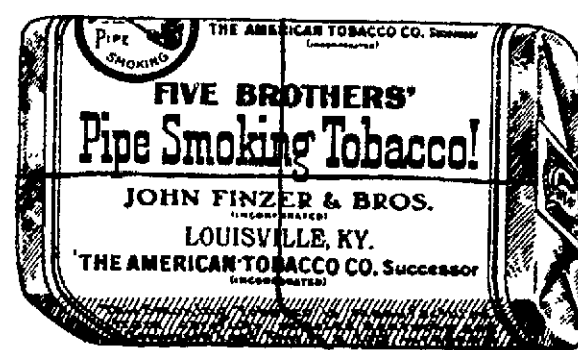

Weeds come in without any effort on our part, but in spite of our hardest efforts to keep them out. How can we utilize them? Pigs make good use of them, but sheep will make the best use of the weed crop, writes a farmer in Rural New Yorker. Sheep can be tied in a fence corner or with a portable fence kept on a small piece of ground after one crop has been taken off and the weeds start. There are dozens of ways in which the sheep can be used to keep down weeds, and they will prove a blessing to any weedy farm.

Shearing Sheep.

Those who have very many sheep should have a shearing machine. It does the work better and quicker than hand shears, without so much injury to the sheep. Where one has but a few sheep it is better to go in with his neighbors and get a machine. But it is well to learn how to shear by hand. Teach the boys even though you have a machine. It is bad practice to leave any tags on the sheep. If you don't want them in the wool, clip them off anyway just for the looks of the sheep. The best time to dip is right after shearing. Some wait until the ticks have all gone on to the lambs and then dip only the lambs. Better dip all sheep and lambs, not once, but twice, so as to catch the ticks that hatch after the first dip.

Special Feed For Thin Ewes.

It will pay to separate the thin ewes from the rest and give them special feed for awhile. Don't leave them with the rest to struggle for their living, but give them a little advantage.

The Greater Danger.

There was never a more conscientious young man than Eben Soule, and when he found how much absorbed he had become with the mere idea of playing in the town band he consulted his minister. "Do you reckon I could give up all that time to music without falling from grace?" he asked anxiously.

The good old Methodist had a saving sense of humor. He saw that his parishioner was much distressed between his wishes and his conscience, but the minister smiled on him nevertheless. "It's the horn you're asked to play, I hear," he said. "Ever had much experience with it, Eben?"

"Never tried it but once, but I like the sound of it first rate," said the young man.

"Ah!" said the minister. "Well, I think you needn't be afraid of falling from grace on account of it, but I do hope you'll manage things so your family and neighbors won't have to pass through the fiery temptation of hearing you practice too often, Eben."—Exchange.

The Artless Red Indian.

The influence of the fur trader and the mission schools has had a marked effect upon the Ontario Indians. They have to a large extent adopted modern dress, and many of the young men can be found at work in the sawmills and as river drivers. The women, too, manage to keep step with their lords in this march toward civilized appearance. I have seen moccasined feet peeping from beneath the folds of velvet gowns of royal purple. On the bank of Itany river I came upon a community of wigwags and teepees. About an open fire crouched three old hags, filthy and hideous, but in the door of a teepee not ten feet away stood a young squaw, perhaps a daughter of one of the hags, doing her hair with a curling iron.—Wide World Magazine.

Some Meteors.

One of the earliest known meteors fell in 204 B. C. in Phrygia, where for a long time it was worshipped. It was carried to Rome and was supposed to be a messenger from the gods. Livy describes a shower of meteoric stones. The people were greatly alarmed, and the senators were demoralized and declared a nine days' festival to propitiate the gods. There is at Mecca a meteorite which fell in 600 A. D. and is still worshipped by the faithful.

Sacrificed to the Nile.

The ancient Egyptians, if they did not worship the river Nile, held it in great veneration and even dread. The Nile had its appointed priests, festivals and sacrifices, and if its rising was delayed for a single day a beautiful young girl was thrown into its waters and drowned in order to appease the god's anger and secure his favors.

If you require glasses we will tell you so and give price, and you are at liberty to purchase or not. We do not urge you. There is no other reliable firm of eye-sight specialists making regular visits to Bedford county that do what we do—guarantee all lenses fitted for two years and make any change free of charge within that time. There is no expense after you purchase a pair of glasses for at least two years. We use only the finest grade of crystal lenses and all corrections ground according to the prescription. We do not give you something near what you require but exactly what your case calls for. No drops or drugs used.

YOUR EYES

Eyes are an everyday possession. They don't seem very wonderful until you lose them. It doesn't make the affliction any easier to bear to know that you are probably to blame for not consulting a competent optician in time, that the right glasses at the right time would have saved them. Don't let this be your experience, but consult us in time.

There is nothing in which delay is so dangerous as in eye troubles. When you consider that you can get along fairly well without any senses, except sight, you will understand how important it is not to take any chances with it. Some of the symptoms of defective eyes are scratching sensation, burning sensation, spots before the eyes, and a gritty, sandy sensation of the eyeballs. All these conditions are caused from a refractive error.

A Good Suggestion

A man about to go into business, one morning was standing in front of the room in which he intended to start up; along came a friend, when he remarked: "Well, my friend, I open my store tomorrow. How would you start off?"

"You'll advertise, of course."

"Oh, no, I don't think so."

"Then I advise you to start with a closing-out sale."
